

"There is no habitation of human beings in this world so fine in its way... as this, the capital of Scotland".

Andrew Carnegie

