

Dining

Highlights

Whether you want to sample the finest in Scottish produce or try tempting flavours from around the world, you won't be disappointed in Edinburgh.

The city offers the finest Michelin-starred dining and the most memorable of experiences, everything from rooftop terraces to basement bars. Here are a few ideas...

Vegetarians should not miss David Bann on St Mary's Street, off the Royal Mile. Some of the finest vegetarian recipes are on offer along with wine, beer and cocktails.

Tel. 0131 556 5888
www.davidbann.com

At Harvey Nichols' Forth Floor Restaurant diners can enjoy lunch, afternoon and evening menus. There is also a brasserie and bar ideal for casual lunches or evening drinks and cocktails. The restaurant terrace overlooks St Andrew Square and the views out to the Firth of Forth create an ideal venue for corporate entertaining.

Tel. 0131 524 8350
www.harveynichols.com

Leith is an ideal place to head for a meal by the waterfront and is also home to Edinburgh's first Michelin-starred restaurant – Martin Wishart. Located on The Shore, Martin Wishart specialises in contemporary French cuisine and is also a good location for a business lunch or special event.

Tel. 0131 553 3557
www.martin-wishart.co.uk

At The Kitchin in Leith, chef Tom Kitchin serves a unique marriage of seasonal Scottish produce with a classical French technique which resulted in the award of a Michelin star in January 2007.

Tel. 0131 555 1755
www.thekitchin.com

Number One at the Balmoral Hotel is another of the city's Michelin starred restaurants. Jeff Bland and his team place an emphasis on creative dishes using only the finest and freshest Scottish ingredients.

Tel. 0131 557 6727
www.restaurantnumberone.com

Oloroso offers contemporary cuisine and a stunning view of the castle from its roof terrace on Castle Street. The à la carte menu changes twice a day and is available alongside a grill menu. The bar menu provides more relaxed dining options and a terrace snack menu is available during the summer.

Tel. 0131 226 7614
www.oloroso.co.uk

The Witchery, located by the Castle on Castlehill, The Royal Mile, provides a stunning location to enjoy an exquisite meal. The restaurant is almost as famous as the Castle itself and is enjoyed by celebrities, locals and visitors alike.

Tel. 0131 225 5613
www.edinburghsbestrestaurants.com

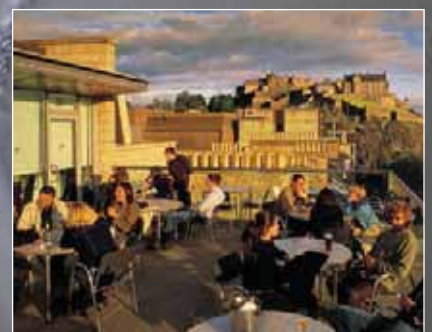

Useful website: www.eatScotland.com

© Edinburgh Inspiring Capital

The Witchery

© Scottish Viewpoint

Bar Oloroso