

Focused on the Future

With an international reputation for innovative undergraduate and postgraduate education, enterprise and research, Heriot-Watt University is one of the leading UK universities for business and industry.

From Orkney to Dubai...

Heriot-Watt has four student campuses: three in Scotland – Edinburgh, the Scottish Borders and Orkney – and a campus in Dubai. The university's Edinburgh Campus is also home to the Edinburgh Conference Centre, one of the top conference venues in the country, and the university's Research Park, is first of its kind in Europe representing Heriot-Watt's commitment to active collaboration with industry.

Problem solving for business

Heriot-Watt is recognised as a centre for high calibre research in science, engineering, business management, languages and textile design. The university aims to deliver research of international standing, encompassing both fundamental research and strategic and applied research, providing innovative and problem-solving capacity for business, industry and society, and exploiting novel multi-disciplinary approaches.

Making creativity commercial

Technology & Research Services (TRS) is the research development and commercialisation department for Heriot-Watt University. TRS develops links between industry and academia
