

new technology meets

Creative

heritage

The Manchester City Region is the North of England's centre for creative, digital and new media activity and is also home to many of the nation's key higher education, cultural and media production assets that will drive the future development of the sector.